The Good Hunter Is a Careful One

You, too, can become, or cause a casualty this hunting season unless you follow the following advice:

Hold the gun in the hollow of your arm, across the front of the person, with hand on grip and the muzzle of the gun elevated about 45 degrees.

A loaded gun should be carried at half-cock unless the person is about to point it towards some game. When getting into a boat or vehicle or when climbing over a fence, the gun should precede the person carrying it.

And most important, never shoot at something moving. Always make sure the something isn't another hunter.

Of course all these things are well known but it won't do anyone any harm to read them again.

UNCLE HY SAYS

November comes and hunters bold are up before the morn is old, and gun in hand and dressed in red, through the hills will quickly spread, and when a deer comes into view, they'll shoot it down, that's what they'll do.

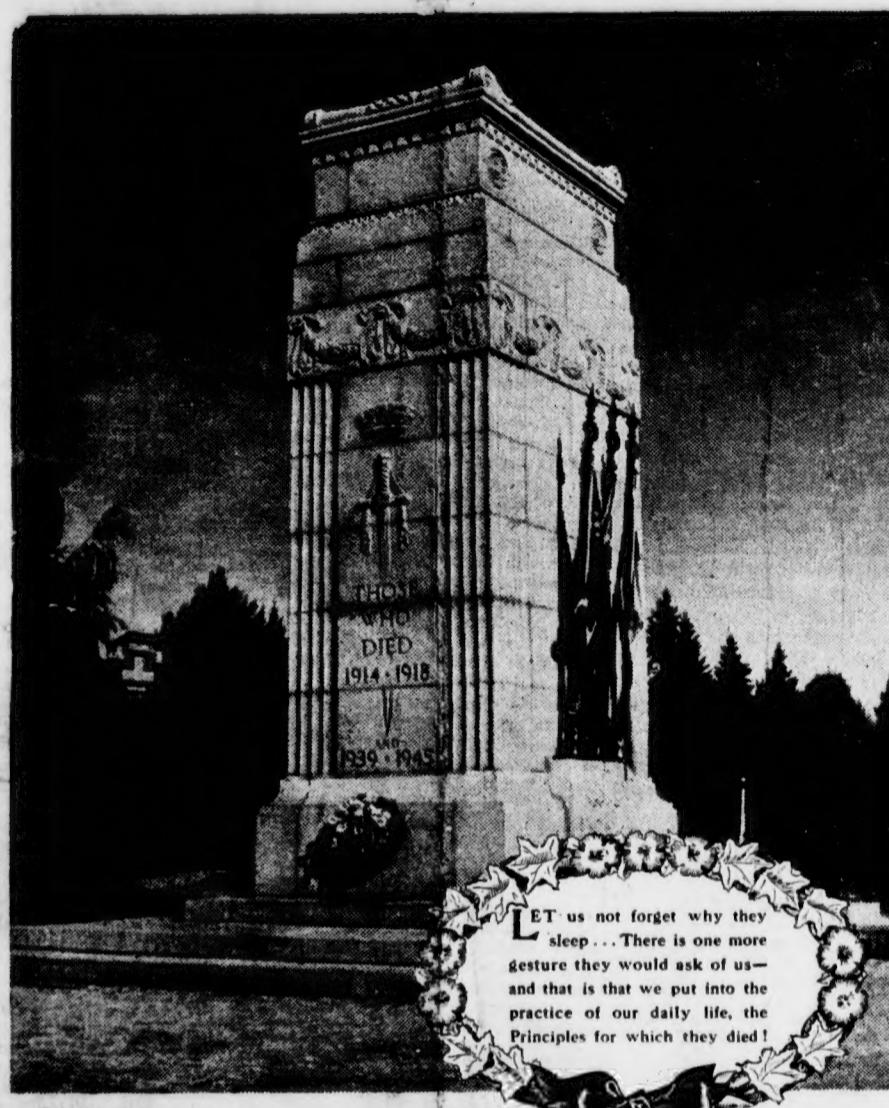

November comes and in the town, where people dine and dance and gown, the last football is being played, the plans for hockey have been made, a show or dance the day to end, perhaps a visit with a friend.

November comes but ere it goes, the hunters come with bucks and does, and there'll be feasts and there'll be mirth for men are hunters from their birth, but what th' ell'y'ege birth, but what they'll tell, about the same as Esau told when after game.

OFF THE RECORD

There has been expressed an opinion that a talkative wife, contrary to popular viewpoints, makes an ideal life companion for a man because she is not dull. We would like to add this may be allright provided she doesn't have a sharp tongue.

There are about 2,800 languages in the world.

LET us not forget why they sleep... There is one more gesture they would ask of us—and that is that we put into the practice of our daily life, the Principles for which they died!

Social Evening At Kern School

A very successful social evening was held at Kern School Thursday last in which the Junior Red Cross Society combined their Hallowe'en party with a Box Social for the purpose of raising money for the Crippled Children's Hospital. A total amount of $54.25 was realized. Games were enjoyed by young and old alike. The boxes of lunch were auctioned very ably by Mr. C. Harsch.

A clergyman and a Scotsman were watching a football game together. The Scotsman continually took nips from a bottle, and the clergyman, no longer able to restrain himself at last cried out: "Sir, I'm 69 years old and never in my life have I touched alcohol."

"Well, dinna worry yourself sae much," replied the Scotsman with a pronounced burr, "you're nae ginnin start noo."

Acme Woman Gets Red Cross Decoration

Mrs. Charles Young was the recipient of the Medal of Honor at the recent supper and concert held at Acme by the Ladies' Aid. Over 400 were present when E. M. Brown made the presentation of the special badge awarded by the Canadian Red Cross for volunteer services during the war.

Mrs. Young has been president of the women's war workers at Acme since the outbreak of the war. In addition she has been active in organizing blood and T.B. clinics.

Friendship

Friendship is a fire which warms us but which will never burn our fingers; if we can keep it alive it will be our warmth and light until we are in the grave and perhaps beyond that.

If everyone of us should cultivate the virtues which propagate friendship, the loyalty, the clear vision, and the warm and inexhaustible stores of the heart, we should be ready for that large and universal friendship which will generate the world . . . the general belief and trust in other men, whether they do or do not speak the same language as ourselves.

WORLD OF WHEAT

On October 21st government controls on coarse grains were partially lifted and trading in oats and barley was resumed on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange open market.

Oats have risen from the government ceiling of 65 cents to the open market price of 90 cents; barley from 93 cents to $1.30. These prices are still below American prices because the government still prohibits exports of oats and barley to the United States. Prices tend to be kept down too, because of the Canadian contract to supply bacon to Britain at relatively cheap prices. To produce these hogs at that British contract price sets a limit on the price of oats and barley used to feed these hogs.

The whole situation is further confused for farmers who hauled grain to market prior to October 21st did not participate in the increased prices that have occurred. Obviously to do justice to all farmers these price ceilings should have been removed on August 1st last. Farmers, however, who are now hauling coarse grains have benefitted by the removal of price control.

Whether the government will permit the export of oats and barley to the United States and whether the government will assume the bacon contract so as to induce hog feeders to continue to feed hogs for Britain, or whether hog feeders will market their unfinished hogs, all remains to be seen.

Iran has one-third more population than Canada.

Farm Debt Shows Sharp Decline

Perhaps there is no more convincing evidence of the healthy state of Alberta agriculture than the declining farm mortgage debt.

Estimates compiled by 30 life insurance trust and mortgage companies indicate that farm mortgage debt in Alberta has declined 73 percent since the end of 1937. The total amount as at the end of 1946 is $10.6 millions as compared with $13.7 millions owing in 1945 and $39.7 millions in 1937. Not only has the total debt decreased but a large number of farmers who own their farms, entirely free of debt, has increased very materially.

Birth Registration Is Important

Registration of births is of more importance today than it has ever been, according to a bulletin issued by the provincial department of public health. They are now necessary not only as proof of age in such matters as family allowances, insurance policies and superannuation and pension schemes, but they are also required for identification purposes by Canadians seeking entrance to the United States.

With this new importance of the birth certificate has come a surge of requests for registration from persons whose parents had neglected the formalities, if indeed there was any provision for it, at time of birth.

Unfortunately many such registrations have been falsely sought by aliens not born in Canada as well as by persons who, for some reason, wished to establish false ages. War and the formulation of plans for family allowances brought an unsatisfactory situation to a head at the 1944 Dominion provincial conference and it was made obligatory for all persons to produce proof, for registration purposes of the place and date of his birth and the identity of his parents, thus bringing the practice all over Canada in line with Alberta vital statistics procedure.

Britain's Coal Mines

THE CRITICAL ECONOMIC SITUATION which has developed in Britain since the war is a matter of concern not only to the people there, but to this, and to many other countries which are linked to her by political and commercial ties. There are, indeed, few people who are not deeply concerned over this grim crisis which has followed on the long years of the war, when Britain literally threw her entire resources into the fight. It was not generally anticipated then that the end of the war would bring the tremendous economic problems with which the British people are now faced, and it is realized that this is a problem which extends far beyond the boundaries of the British Isles. What is being done to assist Britain at this time, as well as what the government there is doing to meet the situation should be of interest and concern to all of us.

Need Coal To Provide Power

At the same time to supply enough for the nation's domestic needs. In an effort to solve this problem the government has inaugurated an intensive mechanization programme for the coal mines, which involves the spending of thirty-six million dollars for coal-face machinery. This is announced to be one of the main points in the National Coal Board's plan for a large-scale re-organization of the mining industry. There are also twenty major schemes for sinking new pits and for reconstructing existing mines, each at a cost of approximately twelve million dollars. In addition, a long-term project for developing new mines and improving existing ones has been drawn up, to extend over the next nine years.

Will Surmount Present Crisis

Further provisions which have been made for increasing the efficiency of the coal mines include the appointment of a Chief Scientist in each division, with staffs and laboratories equipped to provide scientific assistance and advice. There have also been set up facilities for chemical, medical and physical research which will help to improve production and also to increase the safety of the mines, and guard the health of the workers. During the war the British people failed to be daunted by seemingly insurmountable difficulties, and it is unlikely that they will meet defeat in the present crisis. It is apparent that they are making a mighty effort to solve the fundamental problem of coal production and it is to be hoped that this project, and others which they undertake, will meet with success. It is also to be hoped that through these efforts, and with what help other nations can extend, Britain will again find her rightful place in the world economic order, and enjoy prosperity at home.

Move To Legalize Use Of Margarine

Vancouver North Member To Sponsor Bill In Parliament

(By F. Swanson In Ottawa Citizen)

OTTAWA.—Fight to legalize the manufacture and sale of margarine in Canada is to be carried to the House of Commons at the next session of parliament by James Sinclair (Lib-Vancouver North) who plans to introduce a bill permitting the butter substitute, it was learned here.

Mr. Sinclair's bill will be the latest in a long series of attempts to rescind legislation which prohibits the importation, manufacture or sale of the butter substitute in Canada.

During the last session of parliament, Senator W. D. Euler introduced such a bill into the Upper Chamber which was defeated after long and hectic debate by the government's majority in the Senate. In view of the fact that Mr. Sinclair is a government supporter, the fate of his bill and its progress in the House will be an interesting development.

Since the defeat of Senator Euler's measure at the last session, he has indicated that he planned to challenge the validity of government legislation prohibiting the importation and manufacture of margarine in the Dominion. So far, however, no court action has resulted.

Canada today is the only country of the world which prohibits the manufacture of margarine. If the bill is passed by both houses, it would permit the sale of margarine in Canada for the first time in 24 years.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

He was a shy young man, and when his partner decided she did not want to dance the next, he was at a loss for something to talk about.

"Do you ever have indigestion?" he asked after a while, in a desperate effort to make conversation.

The girl looked at him queerly.

"No," she replied shortly.

"What a pity!" murmured the young man. "I know such an excellent remedy."

A Pole was passing through Berlin with his small son. The boy saw a huge statue of Hitler and inquired who he was.

"Why he's the man who freed us from our chains," the father said. "You know, mother's nice gold chains and my watch chain."

A teen-ager who applied for an office boy job on a St. Louis newspaper was asked to fill out an application form. When he came to a place which said "Bank....." he wrote: "Piggy".

He appeared before the company officer, charged with using insulting language to his sergeant.

"Please, sir," he protested. "I was only answering a question."

"What question?" snapped the officer. "Well, sir, the sergeant said, 'What do you think I am?' and I told him."

The teacher was giving a health talk to her class and warned her pupils never to kiss animals or birds.

"Can you give me an instance of the danger of this, Bobby?" she asked one boy.

"Yes, miss. My Aunt Alice used to kiss her dog."

"And what happened?" asked the teacher.

"It died."

At a boarding house a guest was sawing away at the sinewy knee-joint of a roast chicken leg. At last, waving an arm towards a bottle of sauce on the table, near the landlady's elbow, he said:

"Pass the liniment, please, Mrs. McPherson. This seagull has rheumatism."

Bridegroom (at the first stopping-place): "It's no use, Clara. We can't hide from people that we are bride and groom."

Bride: "What makes you think so, George, dear?"

"Why, even the waiter has brought us rice pudding."

Permitted To Search Mails

LONDON.—The Treasury announced that mails into and out of Great Britain will be liable to opening and search for illicit money or valuables sent by post to contravene rigorous currency regulations.

A Treasury spokesman said the practice of opening mail abandoned since war time, would be restored to "detect" sterling notes, diamonds, postage stamps and other valuables.

Any suspect goods found will be confiscated, the spokesman said, and "if it is evident that an offence is being committed, prosecution may follow."

HARRIES HARDWARE

FARMER'S COLUMN

By R. J. Milligan

Soil conservation and reclamation should interest every farmer in the province of Alberta and in this district particularly. Why this district? This is your farming area and therefore it requires your personal interest to see that our soil is saved.

Vern Hanson was in the office not long ago and complained that he had to burn the straw from this year's rye crop before he could resow the field to fall rye in order to control Hoary Cress. He asked if a pick-up cutter box or hay chopper could be used to cut the heavy growth of straw and blow the cut material back on the land. We concluded that this would be a much better way of returning humus to the soil in the form of straw rather than burning and cultivating in the ashes or residue.

There are several of these machines in the district. Why not visit Jim McBean and learn how successful this machine has been this summer.

During a district meeting in Calgary of the agricultural service board supervisors and district agriculturists, soil conservation was recommended for supervisors to stress in their farmer contacts. As the discussion proceeded I mentioned the idea expressed by Vern Hanson and the feasibility of the plan was recognized by everyone. In most areas a trash cover in summerfallow is preferred to cover crops. First, because the trash can prevent wind erosion and help hold the moisture. Secondly, if the trash is uniformly spread no small dams are formed which, if they break, would allow water to run off and perhaps cause a rill and if permitted to run long enough, a gully would result. Therefore it was concluded that trash covers perform two useful services towards soil conservation. In addition to grow a cover crop takes seed, the expense of seeding the land and to extend the argument further plant food and moisture are removed from the soil that could be used for next year's crop.

It was thought that if the trash got very heavy it could be picked up, run through the cutter and blown back on the land thus making it easier to work the trash into the soil.

WINTER CARE OF FARM MACHINERY

If machine storage space is limited, at least try to shelter those implements with wooden parts and keep rubber tires and belts under cover, suggests E. B. Martin, extension agricultural engineer for the Alberta department of agriculture.

Provide shelter for rubber tired machinery if possible, and at the same time set up the machine on blocks to take the weight off the rubber mounted wheels. Where storage space is not available for the whole implement, remove the wheels and put them under cover. If wheels cannot be removed without a great deal of trouble, it pays to cover the tires with canvas or tar paper. All belts and rubber parts should be removed and placed under dry cover.

The seed drill box should be cleaned out thoroughly before storing for winter. The feed cups and drive mechanism rust and get out of shape if exposed to moisture. If the drill is to be kept outside wrap the box with tar paper or canvas. Fertilizer attachments must also be thoroughly cleaned. When commercial fertilizer wet the water joins with chemicals in the fertilizer to form acid. The acid eats away at the metal parts and before long they are ruined.

Shearing and cutting edges, such as those on plow shares, cultivator shovels, etc. should be well cleaned and a coating of grease applied. If you run your single disc or one way up on planks, the disc blades will be kept out of the ground and rust and corrosion of the edges prevented.

WOMAN LOSES SHOE AS CAR HITS TRAIN—By all rules of auto-train accidents, Mrs. Elsie Behrends, 25, of Los Angeles, Calif., should have been badly hurt. All that happened to her was loss of her shoes. Recently she found herself heading for a Pacific electric freight train and her brakes wouldn't work. She turned with the train down the right-of-way, bounced over a curb and vacant lot, bounced back on to the tracks, felt the train hit the back of the car, smashed into a telephone pole and was trapped when her car overturned. Motorman B. B. Starr opened the top of her convertible car and out stepped Mrs. Behrends, shoeless and shaken, but uninjured. The lucky woman is shown standing by her wrecked car.

ACCIDENT VICTIM—Crossing the road on her way home from school, Coleen Newton, six, of Ottawa, was fatally injured when struck by a truck. She was the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood of Ottawa.

HAS HEART AILMENT, BUT SHE CAN ENJOY ICE CREAM—Little Lynda Fyck of Windsor, Ont., is a phenomenon, according to physicians. Her heart is pounding at terrific speed and rapidly wearing itself out. But she had ice cream and cake at her first birthday party, Sept. 25, said her mother, shown with her.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Beggar ::

By Matthew F. Christopher

THE knock sounded like the soft click of a night latch. Naomi opened the door, and he stood there—a tall, humble looking figure whose sunken grey eyes peered unobtrusively from a sun-leathered face.

If Philip had been here she would have closed the door. She would say, "I'm sorry, but we have nothing left." Or, just, "I'm sorry." But Philip wasn't here. And it so happened that she was ready to place the food on the table. He might intend to convey the impression that it was coincidental, she thought, but the noon whistle had just blown two minutes ago.

"Good morning, Ma'am?" he said. He smiled, a tender smile that broke through his grey whiskers. "Would you be kind enough to give an old man a—bite to eat?"

Then it was as if Philip was behind her, staring over her shoulders glaring with those level brown eyes of his, saying, "Tell him to go on his way. Tell him we have nothing. Tell him..." He wouldn't have cared about the smell of the hot food waiting out of the door. He simply had no use for beggars. Of course, he thought he had reason to be. But, Heaven forbid! All these poor creatures weren't like that one...

The sun flashed a welcoming signal on her bright smile, and touched the high tones of her smoothly planed face. "Come in," she said. "You're just in time." "Thank you, Ma'am."

He had a cautious quality about his step as he crossed the threshold into the kitchen. As if each move was calculated, and none more taken than was necessary. She could almost hear Philip say, "See how careful he is? You got to watch that kind. That characteristic quirk isn't exactly human nature!" Funny why she kept thinking of Philip, as if his presence were really real.

Connie ran in from the dining room, her brown curls bobbing on her head like soft coils of spring. When she saw the man, she stopped. Her black eyes rose bewilderedly to the man's held.

"Go back and get in your chair, Connie," Naomi said. "We're going to have company." She gave the beggar a radiant smile, and pointed to a chair in the dining room. "You may sit there. The hat can go on the bureau behind you."

Suddenly she saw her purse there. She had placed it there after having brought home the things from the grocer's. But it would look silly now to remove it, she thought. Even if he did—she felt ridiculous thinking it—but even if he were one of Philip's characters, there was only sixty cents to the penny in the purse.

"Thank you, Ma'am." He looked at Connie. His eyes, deep in the hollows of his bony face, pinched in a smile. He bent forward slightly, and placed his blue-corded hands on his knees. "Hello, little girl?"

It would have made no difference in the world to Philip that he was old. The older, the more experienced; the more experienced, the craftier, was Philip's philosophical slant on it. He gave no quarter, demanded none. They were all molded from the same stock. "Wolves in sheep's clothing!" Philip said.

Naomi heard the man chuckle as she stood at the stove, mixing the gravy with the potatoes. She looked around and saw that Connie hadn't moved. Except that now she had her thumb in her mouth, and with the other hand was nervously curling up one end of the bow behind her dress.

"Connie, please don't do that," she said softly. "Go sit in your chair, like mother told you. The man won't hurt you."

"Shucks, no!" he exclaimed. "I won't hurt you! But, if it'll help, I'll sit down, too. How will that be?"

Connie didn't answer, but apparently it suited her fine. Naomi smiled. She brought the food to the table, put some in Connie's plate, and urged the man to help himself. He did, unembarrassingly, but he didn't take much. Just a little of each, what would ordinarily be an appetizer for Philip.

He pushed the plate away from him when he was finished, patted his skinny stomach with comfort and satisfaction.

"You're not through?" Naomi said. "There's lots more."

He shook his head, and the faint air that he stirred moved his thin, white hair. "No, Ma'am, thanks. I'm through. It was delicious, believe me, Ma'am. I've never had a meal that could come up to that in years. I'm certainly thankful to ye."

"I'm glad you liked it," she said.

Philip would rave when he'd hear. She'd tell him, of course. Why not? He probably didn't have a penny in his pocket. She thought, if Philip could be here, now; if he could just sit in a corner and watch, he would cast out of his mind all those ridiculous beliefs he had about these unfortunate human beings.

Oh, Philip, your silly ideas!

But she'd tell him, and she would laugh when he'd rave.

"How about some doughnuts?" she asked.

"Doughnuts?" His smile shown again through his silvery bristles. "Well—I'm kinda full, Ma'am..."

"Shall I put some in a bag for you? They're home-made?" She jumped up, before he had a chance to answer. "Wait. I've got some paper bags in the kitchen. I'll put in a few for you."

"Thank you—"

She saw Connie's eyes stare in awe

HE SAID "WOHA" AND MEANT IT—Bert Hedges of Etobicoke, Ont., shouted "Whoa, buddy", when he saw a man making away with a turkey from his farm. The man didn't "whoa", so Bert let go a blast from his shotgun. Police later picked up a man suffering slight wounds and posterior ventilation.

Wheat To Inspire Canadian Hairdo

WINNIPEG.—It may seem a bit startling, but Western Canada's famed wheat may inspire a hair-dressing style.

Charles Tugwell of Toronto, at a convention of Western Canada hairdressers here, said there is no reason why Canada and Western Canada particularly should not take a lead in setting fashions.

"We have hair dressers and stylists as skilled as any in the world and we believe such a convention as this—it is the West's first—will encourage them to develop individual styles.

"This autumn we are evolving styles for evening which sweep the hair upward. Western wheat inspires a lavish treatment that is quite original."

Returns To London With $20,000,000 In Car Orders

LONDON.—L. P. Lord, chairman and managing director of Austin Motors, Ltd., who arrived back in Britain, said he had obtained orders in the United States and Canada amounting to $20,000,000.

"This calls for the delivery within the next 12 months of 20,000 cars in the United States and 7,000 in Canada", he said. "To facilitate their delivery we have set up special distributing organizations in both countries."

More Men Required For Armed Services6,000 Men Needed To Fill Canada's Strength Of 38,400

OTTAWA.—About 6,000 men are needed to bring Canada's three armed services to a required strength of 38,400 and a campaign will be launched to get recruits for this active force and for the reserve.

This was made known when a pamphlet entitled "Canada's Defence" was issued under the authority of Defence Minister Claxton, rounding up the latest information on the country's defence organization.

The pamphlet also disclosed that a committee was being established to advise the defence minister and the defence committee of the cabinet "on matters of industrial organization," which includes planning for the development of common standards and design in connection with the manufacture of munitions, weapons and equipment.

In the recruiting campaign, the army hopes to boost its present strength of 13,985 to the required 18,750; the air force want to go from its present 11,804 to 12,150 and the navy from 6,821 to 7,500.

EXPENSIVE MATCHES

CHICAGO.—Matches came high in the early 1800s about four cents a scratch. The Encyclopedia Britannica says the "match" consisted of a bottle containing sulphuric acid combined with splints tipped with potassium chlorate, sugar and gum arabic.

Cheques to CashFor Folk on Road*Travellers Find Them Safer and More Convenient

"Customers who take frequent trips tell me B of M travellers cheques are the most secure and handy way of carrying funds in strange places," says Dan Rusler, local Bank of Montreal manager.

Only the owner can cash a travellers cheque, Mr. Rusler points out. He signs each one on the top as he buys it and signs again on the bottom when cashing it, so the signature can be identified quickly. These cheques hold good anywhere and are obtainable at low cost in all B of M branches.

If you're carrying large amounts, Mr. Rusler says, you will be better off with a B of M letter of credit. Like our travellers cheques, its handy, safe and inexpensive.

Lions Party Successful

The Lions Hallowe'en party attracted a large crowd of children and adults to the Lions Den on Hallowe'en. All were given treats and each child received a dime. Prize winners received cash prizes and they included Diane Martin, Betty Fox, Mary Flaws and Robert Strosky.

Judges for the evening included Ross Thorburn, Ben Fox, Art Wiegum and Frank Emery.

Ever See a Crowd?

Perhaps you once saw 500 people trying to get into a store that was having a fire sale. It looked like a lot of people.

But that was a mere nothing compared to the people you can reach through the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Take our paid circulation—and we'll gladly give you the figures—multiply it by five at least for the people who read each copy and then you really have a crowd . . . and you don't have to have a fire to reach them, either.

Just tell your story, with pictures if you have them. Not all of those thousands will come in at 9 a.m. some morning hoping for bargains, but most of them will see your advertising and when they are sufficiently encouraged to buy your item, they'll be in, even on a dull afternoon.

How do you want them? Jam-packed looking for something cheap, like after a fire, or coming in asking for merchandise they want?

It isn't fire insurance . . . but it is sales insurance.

OFF THE RECORD

It is suggested that many crimes might be treated in a softer manner as mental cases to be cured rather than to be punished. May be they mean using padded cells.

WEDDINGOhlhauser — Schuler

A wedding ceremony took place October 17th at 6 p.m. at the Carbon Baptist church when Mildred, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schuler exchanged vows with Vernon Ohlhauser, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ohlhauser.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a white satin gown with long pin point sleeves. Her floral length veil was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses, her only jewellery being a double strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Her attendants were Lillian Schuler, bridesmaid, who wore a blue gown and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, and Miss Anne Brown of Castor maid of honor, who was dressed in a gold gown and carried a bouquet of red carnations.

The groom was attended by Norman Ohlhauser, cousin of the groom and the ushers were Dave Wilson and Ben Schuler.

During the signing of the register Phyllis Schuler, the bride's sister sang "A Wedding Prayer", accompanied by Mrs. Dave Wilson, who also played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. Ohlhauser left on a honeymoon for California. For travelling the bride wore a navy tailored suit with navy accessories and a white ton coat and wore a corsage of carnations.

On their return the couple will take up residence near Carbon.

Couple Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Garrett on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary, 125 guests gathered at the Legion Hall on Hallowe'en eve.

Cards, contest, a mock wedding and a short program provided the entertainment for the evening.

Winners for cards were: Ladies: 1. Mrs. Schmierer; 2. Mrs. Milligan; 3. Miss Marilyn Hay.

Gents: 1. Don Martin; 2. C. Cressman; 2. Dale Poxon.

Mrs. Stewart Hay and Mr. Ridgewell were the consolation winners.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett were presented with a gift by Mr. Sy Canning, Mr. Len Poxon, Mr. Fred Bessant in behalf of the citizens of the community.

A dainty lunch was served at the conclusion of a very delightful evening.

Co-operation Builds

We cannot all do everything. One must dig the dirt for the foundation; another must place the foundation where it is to go and yet another must plan that which is to rest upon it; while scores contribute to the structure which is raised. It is a mistake to say, when we see a buildin gor a business or a life: "One man did that," for no man ever did very much in this world alone.

by ottawa observer

Not since the end of the war has a news break made such an impression here as the announcement of the trade agreements reached at Geneva. The welfare of Canadians is perhaps more dependent on free world trade than that of any other people. The details will not be announced until November 18th but from the most reliable sources it is learned the agreements are far reaching. While no one claims that the agreements will bring us close to absolutely "free" trade, it is claimed that we are going a long way along that road.

Experimental Customs Union

Observers who see clearly the effect our national trade has on our individual prosperity are greatly interested in the inclusion of "Benelux" in the agreements. "Benelux" is the customs union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Their participation in free world trade gives assurance that their customs union is not designed to build up tariff walls against others but to enlarge the scope of their trade wherever it can be done.

the British Preference

It is generally believed here that the preference that has been given to British countries in our tariff rates will be modified.

The British "preference" was first put on our statute books by the government of Sir Wilfred Laurier as a means of lowering tariffs to countries that would reciprocate.

The British trade arrangements made in 1932 under the government of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett were based on an increased tariff against British countries and a still higher one against the rest of the world.

It is believed that the new agreements will show Canada's willingness to trade as freely as possible with all nations. 123 trade treaties are involved in the new agreements, involving 19 countries which have over half the total trade of the world. A further effort will be made at a meeting in Havana on November 15th to bring more countries into this low tariff trading area.

Not For Farmers

It is noted here that a recent issue of a CCF publication carries with approval an article on "socialist" New Zealand by M. Kitching. The article shows the prices for farm products which include flour, fresh milk, butter cheese, bacon and fresh meat are lower in New Zealand than in the four other empire countries and the United States.

It goes on to say "In fairness to Canada it must be admitted by New Zealanders that most manufactured goods are cheaper in Canada." Farmers of Canada will find it hard to understand why they should be asked to accept socialism which even the CCF leaders admit brings lower prices for farm products and higher prices for the manufactured goods that farmers must buy.

Valuable Co-operation

One of the most beneficial aspects to Canada of the new trade agreements is that it opens the way for co-operation with the United States in peace as we co-operated in war.

The first mutually helpful arrangement between our two countries was made over 100 years ago and co-operation reached a new high level during World War II.

The agencies established to carry out mutually helpful projects include the "joint economic committee" joint war production committee, material coordinating committee, joint agricultural committee, combined food board. Fishing, air services, and waterways are among the important things regulated by mutual agreements. It is expected the new trade agreements will ban large exports from Canada to the United States which will go far to remedy the much talked about "dollar crisis."

One important feature of our co-operation with the United States is that it is accomplished without any loss of sovereignty or independence. No other two countries in the world have worked out their problems as effectively and under such acceptable conditions.

EDITOR ANSWERS CRITIC WITH FACTUAL REPORT

An editor, irked by complaints that his paper colored or distorted facts, decided to write a 100 percent truthful account of the wedding of a young couple in his home town. After stating the names of the bride and groom and the place of the wedding he bravely wrote:

"The groom is a popular young bum who hasn't done a lick of work since he got shipped in the middle of his junior year at college. He manages to dress well and keep a supply of spending money because his dad is a soft-hearted fool who takes up his bad cheques instead of letting him go to jail where he belongs.

"The bride is a skinny, fast little idiot who has been kissed and handled by every boy in town since she was 12. She paints like a Sioux Indian and drinks corn liquor when she is out riding in her dad's car at night. She doesn't know how to cook or keep house.

"The house was newly plastered for the wedding and the exterior painted, thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered and the bride newly painted.

"The groom's pants were held up by pale green suspenders. In addition to his jags he carried a bunch of keys and his usual look of imbecility.

"The young couple will make their home with the bride's parents, which means that they will sponge on the old man until he dies and then she will take in washing."
